Coleman's Rural World
The Rural World, one of the oldest and best known agricultural papers published in the Mississippi Valley, comes to us each week laden with matter of interest not only to the farmer, but to all classes interested in farming. This paper was established 35 years ago, by Norman J. Coleman, now U. S. Commissioner of Agriculture, and has ever been true to the best interests of the farmer and the West.
Its various departments are practically and intelligently sustained. Much interest is taken in the development of the entire industry, sheep husbandry, dairy farming and all other branches of agriculture which tend to make farming more diversified and profitable for the good of the whole country.
For sample specimen name and address to Coleman's Rural World, St. Louis Mo. Subscription, $1.00 per annum, or $1.00 for single copies.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS CLAIMING TO BE THE SAME AS HAAS' REMEDIES, enclosed in wrappers of same color, size, and directions of my well known Remedies.

WHAT THE REMEDY HAS DONE.
HARRISBURG, Mo., June 30, 1885.
I have used Dr. Jos. Haas' Hog Remedy and can recommend it as a sure cure for hog cholera. I have eight hundred dollars worth of hogs last spring out of a house of over three hundred hogs. I began feeding the remedy while they were dying at the rate of two or three a day, and from the first day of feeding the hogs' remedy, I have not lost a hog. If not they have improved right along, and it has only cost me $7.50 and I am sure I have saved me from $200 to $1,000.
PRICES: 25c, 50c and 75c per box according to size 25 pound can, $12.50

The yield of gold in this country last year was $30,800,000.
New Jersey is famous for twins. Every town has them in profusion.
They have a paper called the Mother-in-Law, in Pueblo, Mexico. It is managed by women.
Cambridge, Mass., has a population of 60,000 people, who make less noise in the world than Harvard's 1,000 students.
Deer are increasing in numbers up in Maine. Probably the rush of sportsmen to more distant fields is giving them a rest.
The Montreal exposition building has been transformed into a small-pox hospital. It will take considerable fumigation before it ever again draws a crowd as an exposition hall.

He Saw His Father.
"Father," he began, after taking the old man out back of the barn, "your years are many."
"Yes, my son."
"You have toiled early and late, and by the sweat of your brow you have amassed this big farm."
"That's so, William."
"It has pained me more than I can tell to see you, at your age, troubling yourself with the cares of life. Father, your declining days should be spent in the old arm chair in the chimney corner."
"Yes, William, they should."
"Now, father, being you are old, and feeble and helpless, give me a deed of the farm and you and mother live out your few remaining days with me and Sally."
"William," said the old man as he pushed back his sleeves, "I think I see the drift of your remarks. When I'm ready to start for the poor house I'll play fool and hand over the deed, William."
"Yes, sir."
"In order to dispel any delusion on your part that I am old, and feeble and helpless, I'm going to knock down half an acre of corn-stalks with your heels."
And when the convention finally adjourned, William crawled to the nearest hay stack and cautiously whispered to himself:
"And Sally was to broach the same thing to me at the same time! I wonder if she's mortally injured, or only crippled for life."—N. Y. Sun.

HAVE used Tongalme in many cases of rheumatism with marked success; the most important one was that of a patient, age fifty-one who has been a sufferer from that disease for forty years. In one of his attacks I prescribed Tongalme, and upon the fifth day he was able to be out, and also to attend to his business. Have given Tongalme a fair and impartial trial, and think it the best remedy I have ever found for rheumatism. B. F. Davis, M. D., Sturgeon, Mo.

The question having been asked why it is that change in school text books are made so often, a contemporary explains that in no business is there keener or more unscrupulous competition than in the manufacture and sale of these books. Every publishing house has agents whose business it is to make sales. He assails both teachers and school directors in every known way to persuade them to change, and about once in so often he succeeds. Experience teaches that nine out of ten changes are without adequate benefit.

The Atlanta Constitution pictures the last carpet-bagger: "He is simply a bent and broken old man, with a strained, intense look, the look of a hunted fugitive in a strange land. He is lingering on the border land between the present and the past, just ready to flutter and flit. We gaze at him with much the same curiosity that would attach to one of John A. Murrell's bandits. He has many of the privileges of an historical figure. He belongs entirely to the past, and can never again take an active part in human affairs."

JOSHUA commanded the sun to stand still in order that he might have more time in which to complete the defeat of the enemies of Israel. In the battle with disease we, too, must take advantage of every means given to aid us in our combat. Mishler's Herb Bitters is a potent agent against dyspepsia, acute sick headache and kidney and liver complaints.

JOHN QUINCY ADAMS is said to have had the baldest head that ever rested on the pillows of the White House. President Jackson's hair was gray as a badger and fine as silk though it seemed to stand up like the quills on a porcupine. A number of the presidents have worn wigs.

SECRETARY LAMAR once asked a bright Washington woman why it was that men so often found their affinities after marriage. Her reply was: "If they spent half the amount of time and energy in the pursuit before marriage that they do after, a different result would be reached."
